

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for dynamically discovering alias domains is described. A method comprises dynamically discovering a set of subnets, the set of subnets having visibility of a transmission and selecting a network element to perform the transmission, the network element being in one of the set of subnets.